

UNPAID CHICAGO TEACHERS STORM LOOP BANKS

HUGE STILL IS DISCOVERED IN BUREAU COUNTY

Four Men, One Of Them
Under Bond, Taken
By Authorities

Joe Schreiner of Erie, aged 37, who is reported to be at liberty under heavy bonds on four federal charges of violation of prohibition laws, and who was scheduled to appear before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward in Freeport this morning to answer to a charge of violation of parole, was arrested Saturday afternoon by federal prohibition officers and Bureau county authorities in a large alcohol distilling plant four miles southeast of the village of Normandy. With him were three others who were also arrested and taken to Princeton where they were locked up in the county jail and further arrests were said to be expected during the week.

Howard Plumley, 25, who claims to reside "somewhere near Prophetstown" was seized by the officers about a half mile from the farm where the still was located, while enroute to Rock Falls with a truck loaded with five gallon cans of alleged alcohol. Clem Mackey, aged 20, of East Moline and Chicago, was said to have been the engineer in the plant. Schreiner was busily engaged at the tank where five gallon cans were being filled when the officers entered. "Curly" Smith, who gave New York City as his home, from whose condition the officers rated him as official sampler, was also taken in custody.

30,000 Gallons Of Mash
About 5 o'clock Saturday evening Sheriff Neill and Deputies Gene Flaherty and Charles Gross of Princeton with federal prohibition agents from Rockford district visited the Jack Peterson farm in Bureau county. As the officers neared the farm, the truck was driving west and was halted. The other officers centered their attention on the huge barn in which an alcohol plant was housed with a capacity estimated at about 250 gallons daily. More than 30,000 gallons of corn sugar mash was found in five huge wooden vats. The still of the St. Louis type, was one of the latest models, the federal officers stated.

The plant bore evidences of having been in operation for about five weeks. A large steam boiler was set up in one end of the barn where the entire equipment was housed. About this wire netting had been stretched and straw had been filled in behind this, the plant being of the same type of construction as the one which was destroyed by fire near Tampico three weeks ago, according to the federal officers. The value of the equipment seized by the federal officers was reported at about $10,000 which included Schreiner's new pleasure car and a truck said to have been purchased by him two weeks ago. All of those taken in the raid were to be removed to Peoria late today where charges were to be filed in federal court.

Ishbel Bubbling
Over Says Hostess

Washington, April 24—(AP)—Beginning this beautiful and busy day with a breakfast at Senator Borah's, Ishbel MacDonald—daughter of Britain's Prime Minister—revealed her "bubbling over" inside.

"I had met her twice before, both times in a crowd, and thought her serious and a little shy," said Mrs. Borah.

"But meeting her in my own home, I found her just bubbling over with enthusiasm about everything—quite delightful!"

"It was just a cozy little family breakfast—no guests. So we had a chance for a comfortable visit. She told me about her interest in her home and her sister."

The picture Ishbel gave Mrs. Borah of her visit here was all rosy, but to another friend she confessed had had "only one disappointment."

"I was led to believe I was going to find the White House full of romping children and I didn't see them," she said.

Mrs. Wm. Marshall
Of Polo Summoned

(Telegraph Special Service)
Polo, April 24—Mrs. William A. Marshall passed away at her home on South Division street early Sunday morning after an illness with heart trouble and complications dating since last October. Short funeral services were held at the home at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, conducted by Rev. Henry L. Trump after which the body, accompanied by her husband and son, John, was started for Frederick, Md., where funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Marshall's only sister, Mrs. Harry Flanagan, Wednesday, with burial at Woodsbury, Md., where the deceased was born July 3, 1865. The Marshall family had lived in Polo for the past twenty years.

GOLD POURING
FRANCE TODAYParis Government Is A Fortress Of Yellow Metal

By JOHN EVANS
Associated Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1933, By the Associated Press)

Paris, April 24—France now is a golden fortress defending the few yellow-backed currency systems remaining in the world.

Gold is coming here by air, land and sea to what the newspapers call the world's "gold refuge," adding to the vast hoard in the Bank of France.

Hence, also, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland are staging a fight to remain on the gold standard, while France confidently directs the battle, professing to be without a fear for the franc but realizing the danger if other gold countries follow the United States example.

Seven airplanes arrived at Le Bourget field Sunday from Amsterdam, each with more than a ton and a half of gold, a total of $12,000,000. They carried one thousand gold bars which were trucked to the Bank of France.

From Belgium and Switzerland for days trains have been bringing smaller shipments. By sea kegs of gold came recently from the United States.

The French cabinet's decision Saturday to maintain the gold standard and a statement by both the government and the Bank of France that there was no fear for the franc, was a signal for the fight to begin.

Youth Absolved
Of Uncle's Death

Shelbyville, Ill., April 24—(AP)—A coroner's jury today held Wilbur Skidmore blameless in the killing of his uncle John L. Claridge 58 last night at the home of Skidmore's mother in Duval five miles north of here.

According to the evidence at the inquest Skidmore had gone to his mother's home when she complained she was being "bothered by someone." A few minutes after he had arrived a knock was heard at the front door and when Skidmore failed to receive an answer to his command as to who was there he fired through the door with a 22 calibre rifle.

The bullet struck Claridge in the chest and he died before a physician could be summoned.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict finding Claridge "came to his death from a gunshot fired by Wilbur Skidmore for the protection of his mother and himself."

INFLATION BILL
STARTS ON ITS WAY IN SENATE

Is Called Sure Road To Ruin By Republican
Senators

BULLETIN
Washington, April 24—(AP)—After Senator Borah (R. Ida.) had questioned the constitutionality of the inflation proposal clause authorizing the President to lower the gold content of the dollar, Senator Thomas (D. Okla.) told the Senate today Attorney General Cummings was investigating this phase and some revision may be necessary.

Washington, April 24—(AP)—Deemed capable of transferring $200,000,000,000 from the creditor to the debtor class, the administration's inflation program started on its way through Congress today, certain to encounter searing criticism en route.

Senator Thomas (D. Okla.), who introduced the measure, opened debate. Administration leaders expect to have the plan approved by Wednesday night. As the talking began, Chairman Fletcher of the Banking Committee announced he would "stand by the President" despite his previous opposition to the provision to lower the gold content of the dollar.

The committee text disclosed two changes had been made in the original proposal to provide a further check against "undue credit expansion" and exempting Reserve Bank reserve deficiencies from the graduated tax in the present law. The latter provision is a liberalization of the $3,000,000,000 credit expansion section.

Thomas told the Senate that bank deposits had shrunk from $60,000,000,000 in 1930 to $30,000,000,000 today and unless the pending proposal can take $200,000,000,000 of wealth from those who did not earn it and transfer it to those who have lost it—the debtor class—substantial justice will not have been done.

Senate Republicans moved today to bring out their heaviest offensive in an effort to arouse national sentiment against what they have called "the road to ruin."

Democratic leaders were willing to let the Republicans make the most of the debate, confident that they have the power to jam the measure through when the vote is put.

The House made ready to finish consideration and vote today on the Roosevelt Tennessee Valley-Muscle Shoals development plan. Leaders said approval was certain.

Other phases of the administration's expansive domestic reconstruction program were being shaped in committee, with much attention being given to the bill for refinancing mortgages on small city homes. Roosevelt is expected to send to Capitol Hill early this week a message outlining his plan for assisting the railroads through the appointment of a Federal coordinator.

Two days of sharp informal debate already have been had in the Senate on the controlled inflation measure which is attached to the administration's farm bill.

Can Put It Over
Thomas said he would simply put some facts and figures before the Senate and let the Republicans do all the talking.

"Why debate it at length when we have 60 votes now to put it across," he asked.

The Republican opposition will center on the sections of the measure which authorize the President—if the first step for expansion of credit by $3,000,000,000 through the Federal Reserve Board fails to work—to issue $3,000,000,000 of Treasury notes or greenbacks and to lower the gold content of the dollar.

Senator Reed (R. Pa.) leader of the anti-inflationists, reiterated he would not conduct a filibuster. But he said he does intend to try to point out to the country that what he calls inflation on a grand scale is merely opening the way for the United States to go on a "jam-boree" and come back with a "headache."

Determination to get the measure through unchanged was expressed by Democratic leaders in order to give Roosevelt a powerful instrument in negotiating with foreign statesmen for a general return to an international gold standard on a revised basis.

W. Brooklyn Bank
Opened This Morn
The H. F. Gehant Banking Co. of West Brooklyn, a state institution today became the third bank in Lee county to open on an unrestricted basis. A telegram from State Auditor Barrett, received late Saturday, authorizing reopening of the bank this morning. The Dixon National Bank was the first in the county to open without restrictions, and the Ashton State bank was the second.

Wounded Woman's Condition Better
The condition of Mrs. Frank Gunder of Oregon, who is a patient at the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital, showed continued improvement today, it was reported. Attending physicians were hopeful for her recovery that she would be partially paralyzed. Mrs. Gunder sustained four rifle bullet wounds last week when her estranged husband shot and killed their three-year-old son, in her arms and then fired four shots into her body after which he went to his home and took his own life by firing a bullet into his brain.

Artists' Model, Nurse
Meet Death In Mysterious Ways

Chillicothe, Ill., April 24—(AP)—A Coroner's inquest was ordered reconvened today after authorities said they were convinced that Lola Wells, 20, a student nurse, was slain and not a suicide as they first thought when her body was found in the Illinois River last week.

A brother, Kenneth Wells, said his sister often hitch-hiked her way from the hospital in Bloomington to go to the home of their father, Sam Wells, Wing, Ill., a distance of about 50 miles, and suggested a motorist had killed her and thrown the body in the river.

Miss Wells, a high school beauty contest winner several years ago, and her sweetheart quarreled the night before she disappeared on February 27, the man, Max Lock-erbitz, said as he offered authorities his cooperation in clearing up the mystery.

MODEL'S DEATH MYSTERY

Chicago, April 24—(AP)—The mysterious death of an artist's model identified by police, they said, as Miss Edna Lewis, 33, of Decatur, Ill., led to the holding of two men today as authorities investigated an alleged drinking party in the woman's rooms.

Dr. Robert Graves told police he was first called to attend Miss Lewis Sunday afternoon and that he took several stitches to close a cut she had received on the right ear. She was helplessly intoxicated, he said. Seven hours later he said he returned and found her dead.

The men detained by police were John Scheidness, a printer, and Gale Pendleton, 28, a bellhop. Police said they claimed Miss Lewis injured herself fatally when she plunged through the glass panel of a door between the kitchen and the parlor of her apartment.

Dr. Graves refused to state definitely the cause of death until the outcome of a post mortem examination at a mortuary.

Illinois Orders

Joliet, Ill., April 24—(AP)—The day's prison doings:

Russell McWilliams, young Rockford, Ill., slayer who last week had his death sentence commuted to 99 years imprisonment by Gov. Horner will be transferred from Joliet prison to Stateville penitentiary shortly, Warden Frank Whipp announced. McWilliams may be given work in the landscaping division, Whipp said.

Nathan Leopold, serving a life sentence at Stateville for the killing of Bobby Franks, was demoted from head librarian to assistant.

Employment note. 200 prisoners will be busy the next two weeks making automobile license plates. Warden Whipp announced the state's order for 100,000 additional plates from the Joliet prison.

Premier Optimistic

Senator Borah of Idaho, former Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, after being host to MacDonald at breakfast, reported him optimistic and expecting agreements "which will make the world economic conference a success."

The economic experts were summoned to the White House for mid-afternoon for a late report on their progress toward a revised monetary basis and an understanding on reciprocal tariff reduction agreements.

It appeared Roosevelt would go into immediate conference with M. Herriot at 4 o'clock CST. If the experts reported agreement.

Otherwise the French representative is not due for a business talk with the President until about 8:30 tonight.

He will make his formal call at 4:10 P. M. today at the White House. Prime Minister Bennett of Canada, who comes today for the conversations, will present himself at 4:15 P. M.

Talk of Wheat Control
With the Canadian executive in the Capital the talk veered to agreements for wheat control. Bennett will see the President tomorrow to do business.

Disarmament was a feature largely in this first conversation between M. Herriot and the President. While the results of the long discussion between MacDonald and Roosevelt were not made known, it was believed they had decided upon a plan in which the French cooperation would be sought to save the Geneva arms conference from failure.

MacDonald's Proposal
Such a move would be well-timed. Resuming its deliberations this week after recessing over the Easter holidays, the Geneva conference takes up as a basis for discussion the proposal made a few weeks ago by MacDonald himself, but which met only a lukewarm reception from the French.

It provided for reducing the armies of Europe to definite figures—France, 200,000 and 200,000 ex-

POLICE MARCHED
WITH TEACHERS;
LITTLE DISORDER

1,000 Pedagogues Made
Demand Banks Buy
School Warrants

Chicago, April 24—(AP)—Five loop banks were carefully guarded citadels today as 4,000 school teachers stormed their doors to confront the men they charge are "financially responsible" for their $30,000,000 in back salaries.

In contrast with their previous demonstrations, today's action was swift, well-planned and silently conducted. The teachers gathered at Grant Park, then split into groups, their leaders under armed marching orders.

There were no disorders. A group of 40 policemen accompanied the pedagogues and 200 additional officers were detailed to guard the banks' doors. Members of Chicago's Police Department, too, have had infrequent paydays.

Leaders of the protestants announced the march was to persuade the bankers to purchase a Board of Education tax anticipation warrants, thus providing the schools with cash for salary payments.

Five Banks Visited
The banks visited were the First National, the Continental Illinois National Bank & Trust Company, the Harris Trust & Savings Bank, the City National Bank and the Northern Trust Company.

The teachers met with varying success. At the Continental they were admitted at one entrance and ushered through the bank and out another door. They milled about the sidewalk, demanding to see the president personally.

Several of the banks required all persons entering to show passbooks, thereby excluding many of the teachers. Barred doors in two of the banks faced others.

Melvin Traynor, president of the First National, received three of the teachers' representatives and went into conference with them.

Jury Found Murderer
Of Two Women
To Be Insane

Florence, Ariz., April 24—(AP)—Saved from the gallows by a jury verdict of insanity Saturday night, Winnie Ruth Judd, admitted slayer of two women, again threatened today to kill herself.

The outbreak was during a visit of her mother, Mrs. H. J. McKinnell, to the state prison quarters where Mrs. Judd was waiting to be transferred to the State Hospital for Insane at Phoenix.

Mrs. Ella Heath, Head Matron at the prison, had left Mrs. McKinnell alone with her daughter, after exacting, she said, a promise from Mrs. Judd to "behave herself."

The argument, prison attendants and Mrs. McKinnell said, developed over family affairs, Mrs. Judd demanding to know why her brother, Burton McKinnell, had not come to see her during the eight-day sanity hearing which resulted in a verdict of insanity and saved her from hanging for the murder of Anne LeBoi. She also was angered, the mother said, because Burton was reported to her to have circulated in Phoenix pamphlets and circulars without her knowledge.

U. S. Judge Gives Negro, Wanted For Murder, His Liberty

Boston, April 24—(AP)—Judge James A. Lowell of the Federal court today granted a writ of habeas corpus freeing George T. Crawford, a Negro, sought by Virginia on a charge of slaying two women at Middleburg, on January 13, 1932. The State of Massachusetts immediately appealed the finding to the Circuit Court.

Judge Lowell said he saw no sense in sending Crawford back to Virginia for trial when, if he were convicted, the Supreme Court would nullify the verdict on the grounds that Virginia does not call Negroes for jury service.

"Why send this Negro back to Virginia when I know and everyone knows the Supreme Court will say the trial is illegal?" Judge Lowell asked. "The only ones that would get anything out of it would be the lawyers."

Of Missouri Good
Jefferson City, Mo., April 24—(AP)—Deneen A. Watson, head of the Illinois Securities Department at Springfield, is in Jefferson City today checking records at the office of Neal A. Ross, State Securities Commissioner. Watson denied that he was making a check against alleged violations of Illinois blue sky laws but said that he was doing research of Missouri's securities laws which are generally considered "model" regulations. Watson is also Secretary of the National Association of Securities Commissioners.

Hiram's Security Bill Is Approved

Washington, April 24—(AP)—The Johnson bill to regulate the sale of foreign securities in the United States through a "foreign securities board" with far reaching authority was approved today by the Senate Judiciary committee. Introduced by Senator Johnson (R. Cal.) following his investigation of foreign security sales through the Senate Finance committee, it was approved by the committee 7 to 1, with only Senator King (D. Utah) opposing. It would authorize a board composed of the Secretaries of State and Commerce and the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board to supervise the issuance of foreign securities. No foreign loans could be floated in this country without approval.

Charles Mitchell Hearing Tuesday

New York, April 24—(AP)—The case of Charles E. Mitchell, former Chairman of the National City Bank, was put over until tomorrow when it was called before Federal Judge Frank J. Coleman today. Mitchell is under indictment on charges of attempting to evade the income tax law as to the years of 1929 and 1930. U. S. Attorney George Medall today told the court that a superseding indictment covering 10½ years had been returned last week, and that Mitchell was to be arraigned on this indictment tomorrow, when a date for trial would be set. The banker was not in court today.

Congressman In Court, Asks Jury

Washington, April 24—(AP)—Representative F. H. Shoemaker of Minnesota waived immunity today, appeared in police court to face an information charging assault on Theodore Cohen, a neighbor whom he hit in the eye, pleaded not guilty and demanded a trial by jury. Police Court Judge Ralph Given set the case for trial on May 17, and released the Congressman on his personal bond. Shoemaker, the Farmer-Labor member who never hesitates to call attention to the fact that he is an ex-convict, hit Cohen after going to the latter's apartment one evening to obtain a reduction in radio noise. The Czechoslovakian government has cut its civil aviation budget for 1933 to $1,000,000, a third less than the 1932 appropriation. House cleaning time is close at hand. INSPECT LIGHT SUPPORTS Employees of the Illinois Northern Utilities company are conducting an inspection of the ornamental street lighting system in the business district which was installed in 1913. Practically every one of the light supports has been found to be damaged and some of a dangerous degree, it was stated. Almost all of the supports have been wired together to prevent the danger of falling and a thorough inspection is being made to ascertain the degree of safety of the system.
IN POLICE COURT
Leo Hess of Sterling was arrested Saturday night by police and booked on an intoxication charge. Hess had failed to pay a former fine of $10 and the costs and when arraigned before Police Magistrate A. E. Simonson, he was assessed a fine of $25 and costs. Mittmanns were issued in both cases and he was remanded to the county jail. Lay Tear of this city, arrested Saturday night on an intoxication charge, was fined $10 and costs, in default of which he was sent to jail. Albert Frase of this city was arrested last night on an intoxication charge and was to receive a hearing this afternoon.

JUNIOR LEADERS HAD MEETING IN DIXON SATURDAY
Three Counties Were Represented At Conference
One of the outstanding activities of the Blackhawk Area Council was held Saturday at the south central school, when 75 Scouts and leaders from Ogle, Lee and Whiteside counties gathered there for an all day session the primary purpose of which was to train the junior leaders of the Scout troops to help run their troops more efficiently. The meeting opened at 9 o'clock in the morning with greetings from Ed Valle, vice president of the council, who addressed the Scouts and urged that they make good use of the opportunities presented. With a brief program of songs and yells, the Scouts adjourned to their respective instructors, the patrol leaders and their assistants receiving capable instruction from Ed Clark, area Scout Commissioner. The troop scribes were instructed by A. V. Newman, Field Scout Executive, while the Sea Scout course was presented by First Mate McKay of the Rockford Sea Scout training ship, "The Lioness." After a pep session at 11:30 the Scouts had the pleasure of being entertained with a program of magic and illusion by Vernon E. Lux of Mt. Morris, which was a most enjoyable feature of the program. Just before luncheon the Scouts were entertained by a movie depicting camp life. After luncheon the guests enjoyed an illustrated Century of Progress lecture which was well received. Handicraft occupied the attention of the afternoon session and many interesting programs were explained and participated in by the delegates. The day's meeting adjourned at 4:30 with the closing session in charge of Paul Smith of Oregon and D. Cameron Findley of Mt. Morris. Mr. Ludlow of Sterling explained a troop project financing plan.

Sen. Robinson Says Inflation Will Be Prudent

Democratic Leader In the Senate Addressed A. P. Meeting
New York, April 24—(AP)—The great New York financial center and the nation at large were assured by Senator Robinson of Arkansas today, in an address prepared for delivery before the annual meeting of The Associated Press, that the administration's inflation program would be followed "prudently" and as a weapon to "end the race to depreciate currencies." "We must not enter into a race to cheapen money or to depreciate currencies," said the administration's floor leader in the Senate, who represented President Roosevelt as the principal speaker before publishers from all parts of the country. "Nevertheless, it may be helpful for the Executive to attempt to secure international treaties or agreements designed to end the race to depreciate currencies, for until this is done and currencies are stabilized, our producers and our merchants will be handicapped and suffer loss through the diminution of exports and the increase of imports on the part of the United States." "It is to implement the President for these negotiations that the legislation under discussion is sought, as well as to provide for prompt expansion of credit to the extent found imperative in behalf of our commerce and trade." "Congress can't negotiate necessary negotiations. It will strengthen the President if he is given the authority, even though it must be used prudently and only as a last recourse to save our people from prolonged depression and complete disaster." Before entering into detailed arguments to justify the proposed controlled inflation and credit expansion step, the Arkansas Senator told the publishers that Washington with its war-like extra session of Congress in full swing had "become the world's greatest news center." "The responsibility of those who sit in the press galleries of the two houses," he asserted, "are scarcely less weighty than those which weigh down upon Senators and Representatives." Praised The A. P. "The Associated Press and its representatives," he continued, "have generally recognized their duty and are continuously devoting their efforts to the dissemination of accurate information essential to a proper understanding of those remote from the scene of the legislative contests now in progress." "It is not only necessary that same and helpful action be taken by public authorities for the improvement of conditions universally recognized as requiring a remedy. It is also of first importance that correct reports of the proceedings and policies be supplied to the millions who are watching them with anxiety never before demonstrated to the same extent." Robinson declared that to "continue the policies of indecision" under which hard times had arisen "undoubtedly must have perpetuated the overtopping and all-extensive depression." "It became necessary," he said, "to experiment; to steer the ship of State on a new course, even though the course might not be fully charted."

Protestants In Germany Protest Rule By Hitler

To File Objections With President Von Hindenburg Today
Berlin, April 24—(AP)—The Supreme Council of the German Protestant church has protested to President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Hitler against Nazi efforts to bring the church under the wing of the government. Pastors in all churches at Rostock, most important city in Mecklenburg-Schwerin, warned in sermons yesterday that there was danger in the action to install a church commissioner in that state. Walter Glöhm has been appointed to the post but he will not act for the moment until differences between the government and church state council are smoothed over. Rostock pastors warned of "forced encroachment" and asserted the action was inconsistent with Chancellor Hitler's promise not to interfere with the independence of the church. Munich, April 24—(AP)—Until the whole German world is "completely regenerated, outwardly and inwardly," National Socialist party intends to continue the revolution. Chancellor Hitler told divisional leaders this last night, adding that great tasks lie ahead of the party. "If Marxism now pretends it is dead that will not save it from utter annihilation," he asserted. While declaring for a peaceful foreign policy, the Chancellor added, "Germany no longer must bear the brand of a second class nation but must be recognized abroad as a peer among peers." INDIVIDUAL thinking determines the individual's status of living, for thoughts, either emancipate or bind. Error entertained in thought may ultimately in erroneous action; right thinking always bespeaks its counterpart. Hence, to combat life's disturbing issues and win freedom therein, one must see that activity is essentially a mental process.

Wilson Orgtises First in Contest

Saturday at Bloomington the Illinois Wesleyan University sponsored a contest in their music department entered by six hundred contestants and Wilson Orgtises, of Dixon was highly honored in that he won the first place in the organ try-out. This means a scholarship, and his friends are greatly pleased at the recognition of his talent. He is also equally capable as a pianist. Dr. Jordan, dean of music at the University and who plays for the famous Passion Play at Bloomington, complimented the young man highly on his musicianship.

Heckman-Russell Wedding Celebrated

A wedding of much interest to Palmyra and Dixon friends was celebrated Wednesday April 19th in Princeton, when Miss Dorothy Heckman and Clyde Russell, both of Palmyra were married at the parsonage to the Lutheran church in Princeton. Rev. C. Decker, pastor of the church performed the marriage ceremony, in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thompson, cousins of the bridegroom. The bride was prettily attired in blue silk crepe and the matron of honor, Mrs. Thompson, was also in blue. The young couple will make their home on the Henry Hey farm. They have the best wishes of hosts of friends.

MAY MORNING BREAKFAST
Chilled Fruit
Egg Omelet Broiled Ham
Corn Muffins Jam
Coffee

Chilled Fruit, Serving Eight
2 cups diced grapefruit
2 cups diced oranges
1 cup diced pineapple
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1-2 cup fruit juice
4 tablespoons sugar
Mix and chill ingredients. Serve in grapefruit baskets. Fresh or canned grapefruit and pineapple may be used.

Egg Omelet
8 egg yolks
1-2 cup milk
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon paprika
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
1 egg whites, beaten
3 tablespoons fat
Beat yolks and add seasonings. Fold in egg whites. Heat fat in large frying pan. Add omelet. Cover and cook very slowly 10 minutes. Carefully turn half over, bake 10 minutes in very slow oven. Turn onto serving platter or use sharp knife and cut into serving portions.

Broiled Ham
2 pounds ham, cut 1-2 inch thick. Place on broiler 6 inches below flame. Cook slowly until ham has browned. It will require about 10 minutes. Turn and brown other side. The ham is done when brown and very tender when tested with a fork.

Corn Muffins
1-2 cups corn meal
3 cups flour
8 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 1/2 cups milk
5 tablespoons fat, melted
Mix ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Half fill greased muffin pans or paper cups, bake 20 minutes in moderately slow oven. Serve warm.

To make grapefruit baskets for appetizers or salads, use shells after pulp has been removed. With scissors notch the edges. Handles made of bits of wire or greenery can be inserted.

The spring colors, green, yellow and lavender, should be used in the foods selected for the menu.

Cantata, "Ruth," a Decided Success; Benefits the Needy

On Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Elks Club, the beautiful cantata, "Ruth," capably directed by Miss E. Marie O'Brien, was presented to a large audience of some 250 people who were most appreciative.

The cantata was given for the benefit of the Dixon Community Kitchen and the Loyalty League and all the citizens of Dixon are deeply grateful to Miss O'Brien who gave freely of her time and talent, without remuneration of any sort, save the satisfaction of helping others. No admission was charged but an offering was taken which will net the coffers of the Kitchen about $45.

The choral work as well as that of the soloists was exceptionally good.

The music of "Ruth" is sweet and beautiful and the story, one of the themes of the Bible, old, yet ever new.

The part of Ruth, soprano was taken by Miss Ruth Dysart; that of Naomi by Mrs. Myrtle George; contralto; and that of Orpha, was taken by Miss Mayme Schefelbein, contralto. They sang their parts beautifully.

The orchestra personnel was composed of Miss Eleanor Hennessey, violin; Mrs. A. F. Moore, bass; Samuel Samuelson cello; C. Thomas, piano.

A number of singers from Amboy assisted in the production—Mrs. Scott, Misses Pison and Cassidy; Messrs. Enfield, Eisenberg and Decker.

Dixons in the chorus were Mesdames Auman, Fusan, Raymond, Ballou, Edwards, Austin, Wilcox; Meses Prescott, Brewster, Helmick, Jones, Ballou, Ort, Buchanan, Flote, Callahan, Parker, Crandall; Messrs. E. Rice, Curtis, Rice, Mosher, Barry, Floyd Smith, Gleason, Farnhey, Plamm, Auman, Kaeder, Raymond, Wood, Feltes.

Officers Woman's Club Elected at Meeting Saturday

The regular meeting of the Dixon Woman's club was held last Saturday afternoon at the Christian church. During the meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Florence White.
1st Vice Pres.—Mrs. G. Wimpleberg.

2nd Vice Pres.—Mrs. George Shaw.
Recording Secretary—Mrs. Auman.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Arthur Ewers.

Financial Secretary—Mrs. Lester Street.

Treasurer—Mrs. Lex Hartzell.

Delegates to the convention of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs in Chicago were also elected.

Mrs. White and Mrs. Deutsch as delegates with Young and Mrs. Shaw as alternates.

Delegates to the District Convention to be held in Rochelle were elected as follows: Mrs. Lex Hartzell and Mrs. L. L. McGinnis as delegates with Mrs. Auman and Mrs. Walder as alternates.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Pitcher, president of the club, very graciously introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Esther Barton, who spoke on the subject of "Dude Ranching." Miss Barton briefly told of the origin of Dude Ranching some 35 years ago.

She followed this with a thoroughly interesting account of her experiences and observations while vacationing on several of the largest Dude Ranches.

Dainty refreshments were served at a beautifully appointed table with Mrs. Geo. Shaw and Mrs. Warren Murray presiding. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mesdames W. J. Sullivan, Mary Hartzell, Cline, Kline, Broekner, Misses Wohnke E. Decker Stoner and A. Decker.

Meeting of W.C.T.U. With Mrs. Carpenter

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, with the Soldiers and Sailors Department featured, was held all day Friday with Mrs. Geo. Carpenter, she being director of that department. A delicious picnic dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour. The members were very busy sewing carpet bags to be sent to the boys in Chicago hospitals.

The meeting opened at 2:30 o'clock, the president presiding, "I Need Thee Every Hour." The opening song, Mrs. W. A. Fry led the devotion reading from Second Peter, first nine verses. All repeated the Lord's Prayer.

The secretary, Miss Flora Seals gave her report.

The president gave an interesting account of the National Council of Women, which had been signed and sent in to Chicago.

Mrs. W. A. Fry, treasurer, gave a good report.

It was voted to send $2.00 to the "No-Tobacco League."

It was voted to send a copy of the "Union Signal" to the public library.

It was voted to send $10.00 to the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Miss Kate Plant gave a report of the message sent to Representative Collins.

The president gave an interesting report of the temperance organization, "The Flying Squadron" which will hold a meeting Sunday evening, April 30th, at the Methodist church, Miss Norma Brown of Bloomington to be the speaker.

Mrs. Harriet Olds gave a splendid sketch of one of the Crusade Women, Mrs. Eliza J. Thompson which was given from the Crusade Anniversary. Next year, 1934, will be the 60th anniversary of the Crusade, and at this time all indications point to another Crusade.

Mrs. Marian Mahen read an article from the "Union Signal" on temperance and missions, which was of interest to all.

A report was given of Temperance Sunday which will be next Sunday, April 23rd, and should be observed in every church.

Collection was taken and the meeting was closed by all singing, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." Mrs. Will Lee presided at the piano. A social hour was then enjoyed. At a late hour all departed for their homes, completing an interesting and happy all-day meeting with Mrs. Carpenter.

Balance the Family Diet On a Balanced Budget

This is the second of six daily articles by Sister Mary, offering economy menus and recipes prepared by home economics experts of Cornell University and used by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the White House.

By SISTER MARY
NEA Service Writer

The menus for Tuesday rely on eggs and peanut butter for their protein for the adult members of the family while milk adds to the nourishment of the children's diet. Whole wheat bread also increases the food value of the meals.

Tuesday's Menu
BREAKFAST: Oatmeal with milk and sugar, whole wheat toast (buttered), milk for the children, coffee for adults.

DINNER: Hot stuffed eggs with tomato sauce, mashed potatoes, whole wheat bread, butter, prune pudding, milk for children.

SUPPER: Apple and cabbage salad, peanut butter sandwiches and cocoa for all.

(For the 2 or 3-year-old child the tender leaves of cabbage may be chopped and put in a sandwich.)

RECIPES
The recipes given will serve a family of six.

Hot Stuffed Eggs
5 eggs, hard cooked
1-2 teaspoon minced onion
1 teaspoon vinegar or tomato juice
1-4 teaspoon salt
Pinch of pepper.

Cut the eggs in half lengthwise, removing the yolks. Mash the yolks thoroughly, mix with the other ingredients. Stuff the egg whites. Put in a dish, cover with tomato sauce, reheat in a slow oven and serve. A white sauce may be used instead of tomato sauce.

Tomato Sauce
1 cup tomatoes
1-4 cup water
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon fat
2 tablespoons flour
1-4 small onion, chopped fine
1-2 teaspoon salt
Cook tomatoes, onion, sugar, water and salt together for five minutes. Rub through a coarse sieve. Melt fat, add flour and blend thoroughly. Add tomato mixture slowly, stirring constantly. For a white sauce use milk instead of the tomato mixture.

The family pocket-book permitting, I would suggest that one egg be allowed for each person and the tomato increased to two cups.

Prune Pudding
1-4 pound prunes
1 1-2 cups cold water
1-2 cup sugar
2 cups prune water
1 inch stick cinnamon or 1-4 teaspoon powdered clove

Pageant, "The Dawning," Beautiful Spectacle at M. E. Church

A story of the Resurrection of our Lord by Lyman R. Bayard, entitled "The Dawning," was presented at the First Methodist church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. A cast of ninety-one people from the Daedeleon Bible class and choir of the First M. E. church of Clinton, Ia., under the direction of George O. Anderson, son of Mrs. Alice Anderson of this city, presented the beautiful story. Mr. Anderson also took the part of Longinus, the Centurion. There was much expensive scenery and the entire production was one of interest and beauty.

The church was filled to capacity and much praise is heard today for the acting, and the chorus work was good.

Prologue
In "The Dawning" one sees and feels almost in reality the thoughts and feelings of those of older time and the characters depict the events of the death, resurrection and ascension of Jesus Christ.

First Scene
The followers of Jesus meet in the early morning on the third day of the death of the Lord, outside the Jerusalem wall. Their hearts are heavy with dismay and sorrow over His Crucifixion.

Second Scene
The day following the Resurrection. Also outside the city wall.

Third Scene
Forty days later. The followers of Jesus are returning from the place of the Ascension of Jesus, which they have just witnessed.

Cast of Characters
The characters represented in the various scenes: Longinus, the Centurion of Calvary, Junius, The Old Man, Cleopas, The Other Traveler, John Peter, Mary Magdalene, the other Mary, Rhoda, Salome, Joanna, Thomas, Andrew, Bartholomew, Thaddoeus, Matthew, James, Simon Zeleotes, Phil p. James the Less, Nicodemus, Joseph of Arimathea, the Cross Bearer, Roman Soldiers, Women of Jerusalem, Children of Jerusalem.

Before the production, the True Blue class of the Dixon Methodist church served a buffet luncheon for the Clinton visitors, an appreciated courtesy.

RED SILK CANVAS MAKES PARTY GOWN
London.—(AP)—Lady Patricia Moore attended a recent smart party wearing a gown of Shanghai red silk canvas designed with an Empire waistline, a high cowl shaped neckline in front and a low U-shaped decolletage in the back. The gown was finished with a swath girly tieing in a flat bow at the back.

DAINTINESS IS A PRIZE
This is a prize year to get a good reputation for daintiness. Daintiness is next to beauty in the scale of charm. It even has the edge on beauty, for steady company.

Daintiness, to put it bluntly, means immaculate cleanliness, scrupulous grooming, clothes so fresh they look as if you had stepped out of a bandbox and then that delicate, fresh fragrance that every woman craves.

If you are wearing white collars and cuffs, don't be a lazy girl and decide they'll do the second day. They may do all right but you will have forfeited your daintiness appeal. Get a couple of pairs and keep them washed and ironed to perfection.

If you have white hats, be very careful about them. They are a luxury unless they wash or you can clean them yourself. White gloves are quite as much of a nuisance, but how nice they do look! It's worth the trouble.

Silk things and dark dresses need tremendous care, too, if you are building up self-respect for your own daintiness. And all your lingerie must be fresh each day. And again in the evening!

Warm weather makes the job hard for the woman who perspires freely. But deodorants will do the job! Most of them should go on evenings, and some again in the morning. Your feet particularly, must be given special care. And if your hands perspire, massage them, get their circulation improved and use cologne on them, before you leave for the day.

Mrs. Richardson Entertains W.H.M.S

The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist church met at the home of Mrs. A. N. Richardson Thursday afternoon, April 20th, with an attendance of thirty-four. The members were again glad to greet Mrs. S. S. Dodge, who had charge of the devotion—her topic being, "Jesus the Triumphant Spirit." After the regular business, Mrs. A. I. Hardy had charge of the program, the subject being, "The Great American Indian."

Mrs. Deutsch read an article entitled, "The Trail Man," which is the Indian interpretation of the Easter message. Mrs. C. C. Rorick favored with a vocal selection, "Come Unto Me." Then Mrs. Weiss, in a most pleasing manner reviewed the Indian love story, "The Laughing Boy," by Oliver LaFarge. Her discourse was intercepted with appropriate selections from Longfellow's "Hiawatha." This was greatly enjoyed by all and only too soon came to an end.

The meeting was then closed with a Lenten demonstration by Mrs. A. I. Hardy.

EXTENDING POWER OF SOCIETY.

That tragic dispute at Hastings, N. Y., in which a man and his wife barricaded their doors to keep their infant daughter from being taken to a hospital for a life-saving operation, is a thing that could have happened at no other time than the present.

A few decades ago the mere notion that anyone might try to override a parents' wishes about a child's welfare would have seemed unendurable. The tradition of endless ages still held good, until very recently—a man could do what he liked with his own, and "his own" included members of his family as well as his lesser goods and chattels.

Now we have got past that; and because two bewildered immigrants in a small town hadn't got adjusted to the new viewpoint, the state's attempt to save their daughter's life seemed to them cruel high-handed and deeply unjust.

And for those of us who are sitting on the sidelines, there is an interesting parallel to be drawn.

What else was this stubborn, heart-breakingly, confused attitude on the part of the John Vasko family than a last flare-up of the rugged individualism of the old days?

There was a time when it was none of the state's business how a man chose to rear his children. It is only recently that the higher duty and responsibility of the state has been recognized. This poor immigrant shocks us, today; our grandfathers would have called him a hero.

And we are beginning to see, now, that this extension of society's responsibility spreads into many fields. Not only has society the obligation to step inside the family circle, on occasion; it must interfere in many other matters with which it never before concerned itself.

In sheer self-protection, it must interfere with a man's private business. It is getting ready, now, to regulate the amount of foodstuffs a man may raise, if he be a farmer; to say how many hours his employees may work, and what pay they shall get, if he be a manufacturer; to say what he may do with his money, if he be a financier. It has to do these things, and many more like them, because the old individualistic system does not work any longer.

And the men who protest at this extension of power are, in some ways, strikingly like this misguided immigrant who fights to keep the doctors from saving his daughter's life.

THE GOVERNMENT'S FINANCES.

As the administration and Congress move forward with their recovery program, the ordinary citizen stands a very good chance of getting hopelessly confused when he tries to reconcile the apparent conflict between the efforts which are being made to balance the budget and the plans which are being laid for fighting the depression.

On the one hand he sees drastic cuts in government expenditures—cuts running far higher than anyone had supposed really possible.

But as he rejoices over these, he sees that this same government is about to spend money on a scale never before attempted in time of peace, so as to restore employment and start industry going again.

There seems to be a sharp conflict between these two activities. On the surface, they appear to cancel one another.

This conflict, however, is more apparent than real. The cuts that have been made come out of regular, day-by-day expenditures. So far the federal budget has been pruned by something like $750,000,000, with further cuts in prospect.

Counterbalancing these cuts come the bond issues. The forest conservation work will take around $200,000,000; direct relief to the states will take $500,000,000 more; the farm and urban mortgage relief schemes will require vast additional sums, and a public works bond issue that might run as high as $5,000,000,000 seems to stand a good chance of adoption.

The point to bear in mind is that these enormous bond issues do not actually cancel out the savings already effected.

The federal government until recently was somewhat like a man who, with an income of $100 a week, had living expenses of $110 a week. Such a man, obviously, is heading straight for insolvency. Until he begins living within his income, no one is going to be very eager to lend him any money.

Suppose, however, that he cuts his living expenses to $80 a week. He can now, if he wishes, buy a house and shoulder a $2000 mortgage. The fact that he is far more deeply in debt than before cuts no ice. He has balanced his budget by cutting his day-by-day expenses. Having done so, he is a good risk.

Uncle Sam is in much the same position. These bond issues needn't worry us, provided that the budget for actual current expenses is reduced.

The Midget Man could not express the way he really felt. "I guess," said he, "you Timies know just what you all have done."

"You saved the midget, beasts and me, and we're as grateful as can be. I've thought of one way how I can repay you. It will be fun."

"I'm going to rush back to my hut, where I will get some small things, but you must not follow me because it would spoil my little plan."

"Just rest, now. I will run along. I promise it won't take me long." "All right," said anxious Copsy. "Kindly hurry, all you can."

The Timmymites soon heard a sound. They all jumped up and looked around. Not far away they saw the Midget Man. He shouted, "Hey!"

"I've called my beasts together and we have formed a dandy little band. In just about a minute you will hear how we can play."

The beasts then came from everywhere. Wee Duncy shouted, "Well, look there! I see a big horn and a drum, and lots of other things."

"I think this band idea's great. I wish they'd hurry. I can't wait! I'll bet I'll start to dance when the music rings."

"Now, mind me," said the wee Midget Man. "Please try and do the best you can. We want to show the Timmymites that we know how to play."

"I will give the signal pretty soon. Then, everybody keep in time." The beasts then got all settled, and the Timies cried, "Hurray!"

Then came the music. It was sweet. Wee Copsy cried, "My, what a treat! I never thought that animals could do a stunt like this."

"Why, just by listening, you can tell that they have all been trained real well. I am glad we waited. This is something I would hate to miss."

(The Timmymites see a midget circus parade in the next story.)

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — The "little congress"—that organization on Capitol Hill composed of the secretaries to senators and representatives—has rivaled the congress itself in the working out of the popular "new deal."

This group of young men and women, who by day labor in congressional offices and once a week at night meet in the caucus room of the house office building to debate the problems before congress at the moment, in many instances, have "legislated" weeks ahead of the real congress.

Prohibition repeal was approved here long before congress took final action. Beer, the economy bill and employment relief measures were passed weeks and months before congress gave its approval.

As a matter of fact, not only has the "little congress" forecast the action of the house and senate in regard to these measures, but the distribution of yeas and nays has been surprisingly the same.

Whether its reputation as a legislative prophet will continue remains to be seen. At a recent session recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States was approved.

The "little congress" is conducted in much the same manner as the congress itself. Its rules are about the same as those which govern the house of representatives. And the organization is much the same.

"Mr. Speaker" at the present is George Stewart of California. "Party leaders" are named to lead the debate on each question, but every member usually manages "to get time" to express his views. There are few special rules limiting debate.

The members of the "little congress" don't pretend to represent the views of their congressmen. They may agree with the boss during the day, but when they get into their own sessions the secretaries often take the opposite side. There's even a little mud-slinging at times.

SEN IN MAJORITY—

Both men and women are eligible for membership, but at the present time the majority is men. "It's a good cross section of the congress itself," says Speaker Stewart.

It has served, too, as a good training ground for congress. Several of the secretaries who have taken prominent parts in the "little congress" are now serving as members of the house.

Young Paul Kvale of Minnesota is one. Kvale was his father's secretary for years on Capitol Hill and headed the "little congress" at one time. At his father's death Kvale took his place in the house.

Another youngster—W. Carlton Mobley of Georgia—elected to fill out the unexpired term of his boss, Representative Rutherford of Georgia, who died last session, took an active part in the proceedings of the "little congress."

Mangrove trees do not scatter seed as most trees do, as they would be swept away by the water which covers the roots at high tide. The young plants are developed on the tree, instead, and then fall like spears into the mud below.

CONCRETE WAS GIVEN TEST IN COAST QUAKES

CementMakersPleased With Way It Stood Up

Los Angeles, Cal., April 24 — More substantial construction is needed everywhere to guard lives and property against the hazards of nature, in the opinion of W. M. Kinney, of Chicago, general manager of the Portland Cement Association, who is making an inspection tour of Pacific Coast cities.

"My observation on recent trips to various parts of the country have proved to me the need of more solid construction of buildings of all kinds—homes as well as public and commercial structures," Mr. Kinney declared after he had visited Long Beach and nearby towns to view the reconstruction under way following last month's earthquake.

"Stable buildings are needed not only here on the Pacific Coast. Most other sections of the country are occasionally subject to cyclones, hurricanes, to other violent storms, or to quakes which bring heavy damage to light, unstable types of construction. Structures designed to withstand earthquakes and severe storms are also of the general type which furnishes the maximum of protection against fire and other hazards."

"Of course we in the cement industry are gratified over the manner in which concrete stood the test in Long Beach and vicinity. We have received many inquiries on how cement can be used in new structures to replace those shaken down and in strengthening and making repairs to damaged buildings."

"I have talked with a number of real estate men and builders and they report that a general demand is developing for greater safety in buildings. This is particularly true in regard to homes, both single-family houses and very large apartment buildings."

"Prospective tenants are inquiring about the foundations of bungalows and other residences. If they are looking at apartment buildings, they want to know about many of the construction details. Their questions reveal that they have read carefully the surveys which show why some buildings went through the recent earthquake unscathed while others suffered serious damage."

"These real estate men tell me that a large majority of new buildings to be erected here will be of monolithic reinforced concrete construction."

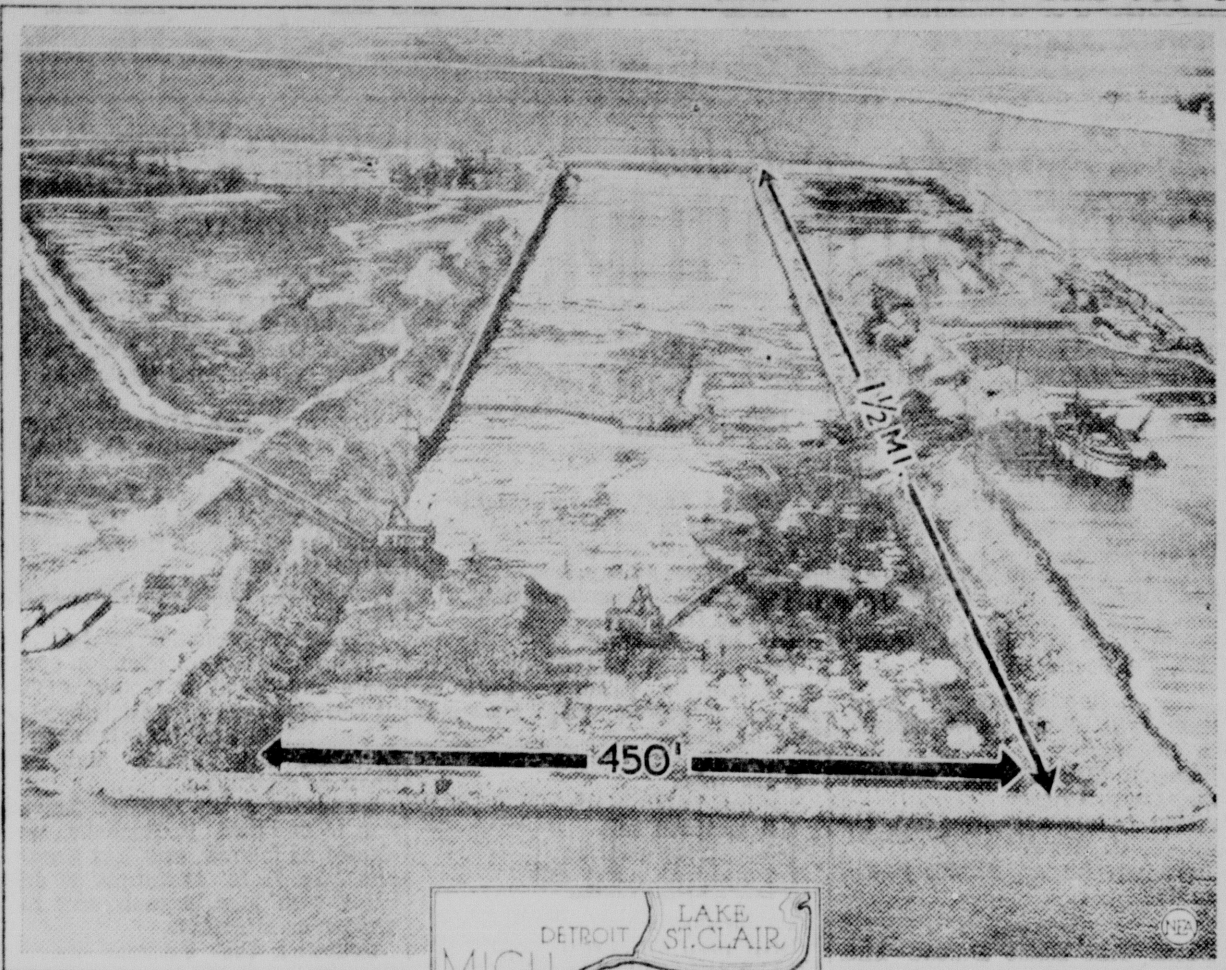

A BOOK A DAY

The ordinary American, accustomed to doing his traveling by auto, thinks he has had an adventure when he hires a horse and goes as much as ten miles in the saddle. What, then, should he think of a man who goes on horseback all the way from Buenos Aires to Washington, a distance of 10,000 miles through jungles, deserts, mountain passes and some of the worst roads in existence?

Such a trip was made not so long ago by A. F. Tschiffely, who is a horseman by avocation and a teacher in an Argentine school by profession; and Mr. Tschiffely's book, "Tschiffely's Ride," which tells about the trip, is a tremendously interesting account of this most amazing feat.

Tschiffely took two horses, riding one and packing his equipment and supplies on the other. He rode from the Argentine capital up through Bolivia, crossed the Andes over passes three miles high, worked down to the coast, went across sun-swept deserts where bones of men and horses bleached in the sands, plunged into the jungles of Ecuador, struggled up through Panama and Central America, crossed Mexico and finally reached his goal—after three years of great hardships. It was a remarkable trip and

A Hole in the Middle of a River!

You've heard, no doubt, of "the hole in the bottom of the sea"—well here's a hole, a mile and a half long and 450 feet wide, that U. S. army engineers are digging in the bottom of the Detroit River, connecting Lake Huron and Lake Michigan, as they deepen Livingston Channel to accommodate ships of 26-foot draft. As the bottom of this portion of the channel is mostly solid rock, the two ends of this section were dammed up and the water pumped out so workmen could attack the dry rock with dynamite and steam shovels. When deepening is completed, the two end dams will be blasted out and this area thus connected with the rest of the channel, which is being dredged. Approximately $3,500,000 is being spent to deepen six and one-half miles and the work is to be completed in 1935. If the Great Lakes Waterway program becomes a reality, this channel will be of sufficient depth to accommodate ocean vessels plying from the St. Lawrence to Duluth. The map shows the location of the work. Meantime, ship traffic is being routed through another channel.

this is a remarkable book. One might have wished, perhaps, that its author had been able to tell us more about the spiritual adventure that goes with every great physical adventure; but we can't have everything, and as it stands the book is an absorbing record of an almost incredible journey.

WORLD'S LARGEST CO-OPERATIVE, THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, KEPT UP TO STANDARD DESPITE DISTRESS

Members Are Told Of the Work Of Greatest News Service

New York, April 24 (AP)—The manner in which the world's largest co-operative—The Associated Press—continued its normal functions through the financial distress at the same time reducing annual expenses more than $2,000,000 for distribution members in refunds and lowered assessments, was described at the annual meeting of the news organization today.

Kent Cooper, General Manager, in his report to the Board of Directors announced that "exclusive of unexpired contract charges and wire and equipment charges over which the association has no control, the total amount of reduced assessments and refunds x x x will amount to approximately 34 per cent."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, floor leader of the Senate, brought to the annual luncheon from Washington, which he described as "the world's greatest news center," a message of the legislative and economic program of the new administration, while P. B. Noyes, President of The Associated Press and publisher of the Washington Star, described the aims and ideals of the mutual news organization of nearly 1300 newspapers.

Roosevelt Kept Busy
President Roosevelt was unable to attend because of the press of business at Washington, but he sent "cordial greetings" to the newspaper publishers.

Noyes' address, as in past years, contained a toast to the nation's leader.

"I give you the health of the President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and that of the gracious lady of the White House."

The report of the Board of Directors, also prepared for the annual meeting, drew a comparison of present day operating expenses with assessment collections of $10,204,326 in 1930.

"The retrenchment by the management," said the report, "coupled with the financial policies authorized by your board, have permitted three revisions of assessments in one year."

On the basis of present refunds and reduced assessments the annual operating revenues will have been decreased to $8,016,549, or a net reduction of $2,187,777.

"In order that the full measure of this achievement may be comprehended," the board noted that "all of the economies were necessarily taken from approximately two-thirds or less than seven million dollars of revenues," the other third representing fixed contractual payments to transmission companies.

Service Unimpaired
Both the report of the board and that of Mr. Cooper commented on the fact that the vast world wide news service of the organization had not been impaired during one of the busiest of news years.

"The year, 1932," said Cooper, "was one of the heaviest producers of news in the history of The Associated Press and the record of achievement, in the face of manifold physical and economic difficulties, is one of which we are all proud."

"The day by day record shows The Associated Press acquitted itself creditably in its service to all member newspapers, while the association also made strides in administrative and technical matters."

Mr. Cooper took up plans for future, saying:
"Operated always without profit and with but a reasonable reserve, the management has recommended and the Board of Directors has approved operation during 1933 upon the most economical basis possible."

"We plan to carry on with the smallest pro rata general news collection charge against any individual member that has been collected from him during the thirty-three years of the association's life and without adding anything to reserves."

What A-P Really Is
President Noyes, in his prepared luncheon talk, said: "Once every year, for many, many years it has seemed my duty to remind those in attendance at our annual luncheon of what The Associated Press really is and what are its functions."

"This seems every increasingly my duty, for with every year comes a new group of members, unfamiliar with its history and its ideals and who to put it euphemistically 'know not Joseph.'"

"It is, therefore, most important that this younger generation should sympathetically understand what bitter experience has written in the hearts of those who founded and fought for The Associated Press. We believed and believe today that the safety of the American newspapers—and their readers—depends on the maintenance of a mutually owned and directed news gathering agency that cannot be the instrument of any private ownership."

"It matters not what this private ownership is for the moment. The very possibility of our newspapers being subject to mere opinion of any private ownership as to what is good or bad in legislation or election is a peril and if the menace becomes that of a dominant privately owned news-gathering organization with sinister motive the menace becomes a monstrous one."

For Self Respect
"Faced with the alternative of agreeing to the control of their news sources—their very life blood—by a private ownership, the newspapers of this country chose to fight for their self respect and founded The Associated Press. This was forty years ago. The principles back of that organization are those of today and we now find more than 1200 newspapers bound together in a mutual, non-profit-making organization pledged to exchange news with each other and gather for the point benefit of its members the news of the world. The news so gathered must be non-partisan in its highest sense; must have no tinge of bias whether political, economic or religious. It must neither advocate nor oppose causes. It must be simply the servant of its member newspapers in their purpose to obtain for themselves the news of the far flung world as expeditiously as is compatible with accuracy."

"This is the sole mission of our organization."

President's Message
In announcing that he would be unable to be present, President Roosevelt wrote President Noyes as follows:

"It was with extreme regret and only after keeping the matter under advisement up to the last moment that I found myself compelled to decline the invitation to attend the annual luncheon of The Associated Press and even unable to comply with your interesting suggestion that I address the luncheon by long distant telephone."

"I am sure that you and the gentlemen who will participate in this luncheon will appreciate the demands on my time just at present which make it impossible for me to accept any of the invitations which, like yours, I would be only too glad to accept under normal conditions. An added difficulty in the way of complying with your request that I address you lies in the fact that just at that time I will probably be in conference with some of the foreign representatives who will be my guests at the White House."

"Please convey to all those present my regret and my cordial greetings."

To Act on Broadcasting
Five directors of The Associated Press are to be elected and the attitude of the membership on broadcasting of news determined. The Board of Directors adopted a resolution last week to prohibit the association itself from authorizing chains to use Associated Press news but left the matter of individual member broadcasting to be determined by the members.

The action followed a recent poll of the entire membership by President Noyes which showed a preponderance of opposition to news broadcasting by chains, with a closer vote on member newspapers being permitted to furnish news to their own or allied radio stations.

Broadcasting of news of transcendent importance has been permitted since 1925 in accordance with a resolution of the members. General Manager Cooper reported to the board that the organization itself had authorized no news broadcasts since the November election.

REV. CANTRELL'S MEETINGS CLOSE SUNDAY EVENING

The Grady Cantrell revival at the tabernacle on West Boyd street which has been in progress the last four weeks came to a close last night. From every standpoint, the service was the greatest of the entire series. The great choir loft was entirely filled and Arthur McKee led in a most inspiring song service. When the gospel invitation was extended by the evangelist over fifty people responded. There were three services at the tabernacle yesterday. A large crowd came out to each service of the day.

Mr. McKee, the peerless soloist and leader of gospel music, has been a wonderful inspiration to the revival. With Mrs. McKee at the piano and with a large chorus to support him every night he has conducted a great praise service unequalled in evangelistic annals of this community.

Mrs. McKee has been a tireless worker among the young people and the women. She has conducted twelve young people's meetings and delivered two special lectures to women only during the campaign. She is greatly beloved by all.

Mr. McKee took occasion last night to thank all who had shown

Famous Household Loan Plan Available To Local Citizens

Through the Freeport office of the Household Finance Corporation the nationally known Household Loan Plan, which has helped so many families out of financial difficulties, is available to the families of Dixon. More than 350,000 families in several hundred cities took advantage of this family financial service last year.

Under the Household Loan Plan you can borrow $300 or less to help tide over family financial emergencies, with as long as 20 months to repay. The cost is as low as the economies of Household's large volume and efficient management can make possible.

Under the Household Plan the only signatures required are those of husband and wife. You do not have to have friends or relatives endorse your note. No investigations are made among friends, neighbors, or employers—the loan is strictly between you and Household. Any married couple permanently located and keeping house whose normal income is sufficient to meet living expenses plus small payments on loan is eligible to borrow under this plan. If you desire further information on the Household Loan Plan just address the Household Finance Corporation Tarbox Building, Freeport, Ill.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH
The Bible school made another fine attendance record yesterday though far below the Easter mark. There were 338 present. The Men's Class had 39; the Young Men, 33; the Pri-lo-has, and the Upstreamers, 41 each and the True Blue, 31.
At the decision service at the close of the Bible School there were eight responses. Three others came forward at the afternoon service. Six were baptized at the special vesper service at 4:30.
The ladies of the various churches co-operating in the evangelistic campaign served a fine dinner to the men who labored on dismantling the tabernacle today, at the church. The tabernacle is being torn down with donated labor.
The Ladies Aid Society will meet in an all-day meeting Wednesday. The final union young peoples meeting was conducted by Sister McKee Sunday evening at 6:00.
The pastor will begin a week of special follow-up evangelistic meetings at the church Tuesday at 7:30 P. M. The meeting will be carried on by home forces. A Junior Choir will assist in the music each evening and special numbers will be furnished by members of the choir. The public is cordially invited.

BRETHREN CHURCH
Sunday was a delightful day and our Sunday school was well attended, and the services at the tabernacle were of spiritual help to everyone. All services will be continued at the church in the future as before the Cantrell meetings. A workers conference of the officers and teachers will be held at the home of T. H. McWethy on Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock. Every teacher should be present. An inspirational Bible study and consecration service will be held at the church Wednesday evening at 7:30.
The Crusaders' Sunday school class will have its class meeting in the church parlors Thursday evening. There will be a scramble supper at 7:00 followed by a well prepared program. A young people's conference will be held at the church next Sunday afternoon and evening. There will be delegations from Sterling, Mount Morris, Polo, Pine Creek and Franklin Grove. Arrangements are being planned for a great event.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Evangelistic meetings, sequel to the Grady Cantrell campaign, will be conducted at the First Baptist church Tuesday to Friday evenings, inclusive, this week.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Probation After Death" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 23.
The Golden Text was, "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved" (Matthew 24:13).
Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon were the following from the Bible: "If the clouds be full of rain, they empty themselves upon the earth; and if the tree fall toward the south, or toward the north, in the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be" (Ecc. 11:3).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals need not fancy that belief in the experience of death will awaken them to glorified being. As man falleth asleep, so shall he awake. As death findeth mortal man, so shall he be after death, until probation and growth shall effect the needed change" (p. 291).

SENIORS NAMED TO HANDLE CITY OFFICERS' JOBS

Student Administration
Practically Complete
For Next Saturday

By Don Hilliker

With the student appointments arranged and confirmed the Senior members of the city of Dixon's new ruling body for Saturday, April 29, are making preparations for a great day. The various appointed officials were selected and the nature of their duties explained.

The boards, hospital, park, library and band, are especially active preparing reports to be presented before the Council meeting Saturday evening. Splendid cooperation with present city officers of these boards, Mrs. Davies, hospital; Mrs. Thompson, band; Mrs. Warner, library; and Louis Pletcher park, is enabling the students to make speedy progress.

On Friday evening in the council room of the City Hall the new members of the city official force will be inducted into office. On the following day, Dixon will be under the control of the younger generation. After this much-awaited day, there will be a council meeting conducted by the students in the evening. Both meetings are open to the public.

The personnel of the fire and police departments is as yet undecided.

The officials for Saturday are as follows: Mayor—Bradley Moll. Com. of Public Health and Safety—Paul Potts.

Com. of Accounts and Finance—Bob Eno. Com. of Public Property—Joe Beech.

Com. of Streets—Harry Mosher. Police Magistrate—Ned Whitebread.

Chief of Police—William Smith. Chief of Fire Dept.—Robert Boyer.

City Clerk—Anne Davies. Assistant—Pauline Conrad.

City Attorney—Louis Robinson. Assistant—Louise Warner.

City Treasurer—Virginia Cook. Health Officer—Herbert Cooper.

City Engineer—John Carey. Suply. of Streets—Albert Spiller.

Library Board—Helen Rorer, Wilhelmina Minnahan, Eleanor Stahl, Eleanor Ketchum, Jean Emmert, Virginia Schumaker, Kathleen Feeley, Josephine Bevilacqua, Louise Bally.

Hospital Board—Irene Simpson, Elizabeth Ford, Dorothy Girndt, Martha Miller, Phyllis Puffs, Elizabeth Brandt, Pearl Neff, Grazia Senneff, Ovella Potts.

Did you ever stop to think

EDSON WAITE
Shawnee, Okla.

The editor of the Grande Prairie, Alberta, Herald, a newspaper that serves the Great Peace river country so well, in commenting on a small advertisement in the Herald recently, said:

"We have often heard of psychology in advertising, but it was not until last week that we had an opportunity of trying it out. The results were most gratifying. It all had to do with an advertisement inserted in the Herald's Swap-Barter column. The advertisement as handed in read as follows: 'Will trade 5-tube battery radio receiving set, complete with tubes and loud speaker, for good milk cow.'"

"Just as the copy was about to go out to the linotype operator to be put in type, along came a member of the town's clergy. He spotted the copy and the humorous side of his make-up could not be controlled. He suggested that the phrasing of the advertisement be slightly changed. We agreed, and as a result the copy appeared in print as follows: 'Will trade 5-tube battery radio receiving set for a good milk cow, complete with tubes and loud speaker.'"

"The results were almost spontaneous. The Herald had been in the mails but a few hours when the phone began to buzz with inquiries about the cow with tubes and loud speaker. Passersby tapped on the office window and laughingly asked us if we still had the cow. Saturday morning's mail from the west had its quota of comments.

"Most interesting of all, however, was the fact that a farmer in the Hudson district wrote in to say that he wanted the radio and had a cow to offer in trade. The applicant did not state whether or not the cow came up to the specifications as set forth in advertisement. At any rate we handed the reply to the advertiser and it is hoped that both parties are now satisfied."

"What evidence?" she demanded staunchly.

"He was seen at Black Tree Inn with the lot of them last night," said the big man, enjoying the drama of this announcement. "He knew them. He was in on it. He left there early and he won't say who he went and who he was with. Guess that sounds guilty, don't it?"

Bill said thickly, fiercely, "That's a lie!"

"It's not a lie you were drinking with the lot of them at the Inn?"

"No. The moonshinable was wratched from Bill. 'No. But—'

The big man cut him off abruptly. "None of your butts, young feller."

"I didn't know them. They just sat down at my table," Bill flung across at him. "I swear I didn't know—"

His eyes found his mother's haggard face, implored her to believe him.

"Then when they drove up, brave as you please, at 11 o'clock didn't you fill up their gas tanks and pass the time of day with them as happy as you please?" went on the big man. "When they says 'hands up,' didn't you let them get away with it? Don't tell me you aren't part and parcel of the gang!"

Monnie said in a low clear voice, "Don't worry, Bill. We believe you. We'll get a lawyer."

But Bill had been at Black Tree Inn. That alone counted against him. Her heart was pounding painfully. No matter what he had done the O'Dares would stand by him. But how dreadful it all was. The tag end of a verse she had always loved came into her mind just then.

"The men of my own stock,

120 millimeters of mercury, and that for the meat eaters 160.

Despite these figures however, it cannot be concluded that the difference in the blood pressure, to the apparent advantage of the vegetarian group, was due to their diet.

It is therefore, much more probable is substantially affected by the routine of life. The individuals in the vegetarian group are under a vow of silence and live secluded lives devoted largely to manual work or to study and contemplation.

In the meat-eating group, however, the monks come into closer contact with one another and with the outside world, and live what might be considered a much more normal life.

It is therefore much more probable that the restful, unagitated existence of the vegetarian group, rather than their vegetarianism, accounts for their better showing in blood pressure.

DARLING FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONICA O'DARE, 20 and beautiful, is in love with DAN CARDIGAN, one of the town's rich young men. At a local dancing place where she has gone with Dan she meets her friend, SANDRA LAWRENCE, with a handsome and mysterious newcomer, CHARLES EUSTACE.

SANDRA immediately takes charge of Dan. Monnie, hurt, allows Charles to escort her home. When Monnie's older brother, BILL, is arrested at the garage where he works she rushes to his aid.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

SOMETHING in the policeman's tone stiffened Monica's trembling backbone. She actually managed a laugh. "Bill arrested?" she echoed. "But that's absurd."

Bill's dark frown relaxed the merest trifle and Monnie had the satisfaction of seeing her mother straighten, look about her bravely. Absurd—of course it was absurd. Bill O'Dare under arrest! Why, he'd lived in Belvedere all his 22 years. He was honest as the day was long! Everybody knew that.

The big man who dominated the little scene found speech. He glowed at Monnie.

"Absurd, is it?" he bellowed. "And who, may I ask, are you?"

"I'm his sister," Monica said, bringing the full battery of her flashing amber eyes to rest upon him. "Would you mind telling me what this is all about?"

Several people began to talk at once. The big man silenced them. "Maybe you don't know," he began truculently, "that there's been a robbery down at the gas station—an' a big one. Maybe you don't know this young feller let them get away. Maybe you don't know we have positive evidence he conspired with them payroll thieves—"

The veins in Bill's forehead were swollen painfully. His scornful blue eyes flashed defiance. Was it fear that lurked behind those blue eyes? No, Monnie would not entertain that thought for a single minute!

"What evidence?" she demanded staunchly.

"He was seen at Black Tree Inn with the lot of them last night," said the big man, enjoying the drama of this announcement. "He knew them. He was in on it. He left there early and he won't say who he went and who he was with. Guess that sounds guilty, don't it?"

Bill said thickly, fiercely, "That's a lie!"

"It's not a lie you were drinking with the lot of them at the Inn?"

"No. The moonshinable was wratched from Bill. 'No. But—'

The big man cut him off abruptly. "None of your butts, young feller."

"I didn't know them. They just sat down at my table," Bill flung across at him. "I swear I didn't know—"

His eyes found his mother's haggard face, implored her to believe him.

"Then when they drove up, brave as you please, at 11 o'clock didn't you fill up their gas tanks and pass the time of day with them as happy as you please?" went on the big man. "When they says 'hands up,' didn't you let them get away with it? Don't tell me you aren't part and parcel of the gang!"

Monnie said in a low clear voice, "Don't worry, Bill. We believe you. We'll get a lawyer."

But Bill had been at Black Tree Inn. That alone counted against him. Her heart was pounding painfully. No matter what he had done the O'Dares would stand by him. But how dreadful it all was. The tag end of a verse she had always loved came into her mind just then.

"The men of my own stock,

120 millimeters of mercury, and that for the meat eaters 160.

Despite these figures however, it cannot be concluded that the difference in the blood pressure, to the apparent advantage of the vegetarian group, was due to their diet.

It is therefore, much more probable is substantially affected by the routine of life. The individuals in the vegetarian group are under a vow of silence and live secluded lives devoted largely to manual work or to study and contemplation.

In the meat-eating group, however, the monks come into closer contact with one another and with the outside world, and live what might be considered a much more normal life.

It is therefore much more probable that the restful, unagitated existence of the vegetarian group, rather than their vegetarianism, accounts for their better showing in blood pressure.

She ran her fingers nervously through her hair. "You must believe my brother's innocent, Mr. Eustace!" she said.

Bitter had they may be, But at least they hear the things I hear.

They see the things I see—" Bill looked oddly like their dead father at this moment. Daddy, the most honest man who'd ever lived. No, Bill O'Dare wasn't—couldn't be a thief. There must be a way out of this nightmare and Monnie would have to find it.

"Monnie, I'm sorry," the older woman said in a low voice, "but I'm not feeling very well—"

She eyed against the girl, her face lighted with a deadly pallor. Monnie felt the world swimming around her for one dreadful moment. Then she heard a friendly voice. Charles Eustace's.

"Let me carry her to the car, Miss O'Dare."

She saw him swing the slight figure of her mother over the running board. As in a dream, she followed him.

"That's right. You hold her head against your shoulder. She's just a bit faint. We'll stop by my uncle's office and get her something."

The car flew along. Monnie was conscious of curious faces along the way. How he had found her—how he had known where she was to be found or what the trouble was, she didn't even bother to consider. She was grateful from the bottom of her heart. She felt, in a very passion of gratitude, that nothing she might ever do would repay this man for his kindness.

At last they were at home. Mrs. O'Dare, declaring herself able to walk now, had been assisted into the house, had willingly accepted the medicine Dr. Waterman had prescribed for her and agreed to lie down for a short time.

Monnie went back into the living room where she found Charles Eustace, very big and masculine, among the ferns and looped curtains of her mother's domain.

"I don't know how to thank you. I suppose you've heard what fearful difficulties we're in."

If she said any more, she was certain to cry. And she must not do that. She must keep her head at any cost.

"I did. I'm frightfully sorry. Can I help?"

"You have already. Judge Cory is going down there." She ran her fingers nervously through her bronze curls. "You must believe my brother's innocent, Mr. Eustace. He couldn't have done this thing. It's not in him—I mean he simply couldn't!"

Her eyes challenged him. "I'm sure of it. Look here, I'll run down to see him—I haven't another thing to do. I'll stop by and let you know what I've found out. May 1?"

How kind he was! And she had only known him a few days. There was Dan who was supposed to be in love with her and Dan hadn't telephoned—hadn't rushed to her side.

ROBBED OF A NO-HIT PERFORMANCE

Detroit's Twirler Came Through With One-Hit Game Sunday

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Tommy Bridges, slim right hander of the Detroit Tigers, still is looking for his perfect ball game.

Last August, against Washington, Tommy turned in the season's greatest pitching feat but failed by a hair to record a no-hit game. With two out in the ninth, Dave Harris, a pinch batsman, smacked a clean single.

Yesterday Bridges came almost as close. For seven innings he retired the St. Louis Browns without a blow, then Sam West found him for a single in the eighth, the only hit he gave.

The feat was good enough for the Tigers to win 2 to 0 despite flashy pitching by George Blahodier and Bump Hadley, who gave only three hits and no walks. With two out in the seventh, an error, Charley Gehring's single and Gerald Walker's single brought in the only runs.

Ted Lyons, Chicago White Sox veteran, did some snappy pitching in beating Cleveland's Indians, 4 to 1. Lyons allowed only two singles, crashed a home run with one aboard his first time up and added two more hits for a perfect day at bat.

Here's A Contract

In contrast the Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics posted each other for a total of 23 blows as Boston came from behind to win 7 to 5.

Washington ended the New York Yankees' seven game winning streak by slugging over two runs against Wilky Moore in the ninth, largely through the pinch hitting feats of Heinie Manush and Sam Rice, and won 5 to 4.

Pittsburgh's bold Buccaners dominated the National League scene by taking a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals to tighten their hold on first place. Heinie Meine blanked the Cards with three hits in the opener while the Pirates drove Dazzy Vance to cover in one inning and won 4 to 0. Five St. Louis errors and some steady hurling by Waite Hoyt for Pittsburgh gave the Bucs a 6 to 2 decision in the second clash.

Brandt Beat Beck

Another sparkling bit of flinging showed Brooklyn out of second place as Ed Brandt of Boston turned the tables on Walter Beck in their second duel of the week, winning 2 to 1. Brandt gave only three blows. The New York Giants passed their rivals from across the river by turning back the Phillies 3 to 1 as Fred Fitzsimmons clouted a homer to clinch his own game in the eighth.

The Cincinnati Reds came to life and upset Chicago's Cubs and Lon Warneke, 4 to 3, in the fourth National League game, scoring two runs in the ninth when Harry Rice clouted a triple with two on base. Bill Jurges, Cub shortstop, suffered a slightly sprained ankle in a collision with him Bottomley at first.

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER

MEMORIES OF FIRPO—

Luis Angel Firpo, the big man who knocked Jack Dempsey out of the ring in the most amazing drama in ring history, was arrested the other day in Buenos Aires. The charge against the Wild Bull of the Pampas was swindling, in connection with a land deal.

The "Wild Bull" was dumb in lots of ways—but not as a business man. Tex Rickard produced papers on one occasion to show that he had paid Luis Angel $383,000 for three fights—against Dempsey, Willard and Wills—in this country—and the Argentinian shared none of this money with managers—he was his own manager.

ONLY THE PRESIDENT—

Once he was taken to Washington—and shook hands with President Coolidge. On his way out, of the White House, he asked in Spanish, "Who was that man?"

One day when he was preparing for a fight—the Wills fight, I think—I went to his camp. The late Jimmy DeForest, his trainer, said Firpo was asleep and could not be disturbed. Just to prove that he was on the up-and-up, Jimmy took me to Firpo's bedroom the giant from the Argentine, almost nude, was seated at a table scribbling figures on a greasy paper with a stubby pencil—he was computing his income tax.

TOOK HIS OWN MOVIES—

He came to the United States with a celluloid collar and a few pesos—for his first few fights he received only a few hundred dollars from the promoters—but he took his own movies of those contests—and sold them in South America for $75,000. The shaggy Latin from the alleys of Buenos Aires was one of the biggest eaters I ever saw. One hot day it was my privilege to see him partake of a light lunch—two huge tenderloin steaks, a half dozen fried eggs, and a couple of loaves of French bread.

He really beat Dempsey in that "Battle of Anything Goes." The Mauler went flying through the ropes—and it was at least 15 seconds before he was pushed back into the ring—to slug Firpo to the floor again and again and again—finally clubbing him into unconsciousness.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Probably the biggest crowd that turns out for any spectacle in sports is the gathering along the Thames when Oxford rows against Cambridge—some 300,000 people—but the British Grand National at Aintree, near Liverpool, draws almost as many. America's nearest approach is the Memorial Day 500-mile automobile race at Indianapolis, where 150,000 steam themselves in the summer sun. Speaking of crowds, it appears the American Association magnates are going to take it on the chin for plenty this year—the other day 187 persons, including policemen, saw Kansas City play Louisville—and in other A. A. towns, throngs of less than 300 are not unusual.

Walker Returns To Wars This Week

New York, April 24 (AP)—Mickey Walker, whose attempted heavyweight campaign ended in partial disaster, returns to the ring this week as a light heavyweight.

The Rumson, N. J., gamster, former welterweight and middleweight champion, opens the week's slender national program in a 10 round bout against George Manley of Denver at San Francisco tonight.

The only other bout of much importance this week will send Freddie Miller of Cincinnati, National Boxing Association featherweight champion, against John Gonzales, a Long Beach unknown in a ten round title match at Wilmington, Calif., Wednesday night.

West Ferrell To Try Pitching Today

Chicago, April 24 (AP)—West Ferrell, the Cleveland Indians ace righthander, injured a week ago, was in line for today's pitching assignment against the Chicago White Sox.

Ferrell pulled some adhesions loose in his shoulder in pitching against St. Louis and it was feared he might be out of action a long time. However, the pain has disappeared and he is about ready. He warmed up yesterday, but decided against working.

SQUASH MATCH AT HAZELWOOD CLOSE CONTEST

Rockford Team Is Forced To Limit To Trim Amateurs

Yesterday afternoon was a busy one in the squash court at the C. R. Walgreen home at Hazelwood, near Dixon. A team of local squash players battled a team from the University Club of Rockford, and in spite of the fact that most of the members of the Hazelwood team are amateurs of only a few months' experience, the Rockford team was forced to extend itself to the utmost to carry the day.

The hottest contest of the afternoon was the match between Dr. Quattbaum of Rockford and Justin Dart of Hazelwood. They were playing for the best three out of five and while Dart only took one game and Quattbaum took three, the score shows that only one of the four games ended short of a tie. The normal end of the game is when one player gets 15 points but in the event of a tie it is necessary to extend the point limit by three or five, as the players elect.

The games were watched by a large gallery from Dixon and Rockford and the players were loudly cheered for their exceptionally clever work. At the completion of the tournament the University Club, presented to Mr. Walgreen a trophy which was a silvered horseshoe, mounted on a polished wood plaque. A return match is in prospect and the Hazelwood players feel that with a few more months of practice they can make a far better showing. The scores were:

W. Barton of Rockford won over Charles R. Walgreen, Jr. 15-12, 15-9 and 18-16.

H. Hubbard of Rockford won over W. Johnston of Chicago, member of the Hazelwood team, 15-8, 15-12, 15-10.

Dr. Quattbaum of Rockford won over Justin Dart of Hazelwood with Dart taking one game, 18-17 and Quattbaum taking three, 18-16, 15-11 and 18-17.

Walter Coleman of Rockford took two games, 15-7, 15-11 and John Ralston of the Hazelwood team took one game, 15-11.

K. Williams of Rockford beat M. Schwartz 15-12, 15-11, 17-14.

In a performance seldom equalled by any Derby candidate, the son of My Play-Rite Derby burned up the fast track to cover the mile and one-quarter in 2:07 4-5 and was well in hand at the finish. He clipped off a mile in 1:39 and was galloping to finish out the extra two furlongs.

The only other Derby nominee to try the full route Sunday was Mrs. A. M. Creech's Interpreter, who turned in a mile in 1:42 and the mile and one-quarter in 2:08 over a cuppy track in the morning.

Old Timer Of Base Ball Dies In East

Cambridge Mass. April 4 (AP)—Those who followed big league baseball back in '85 were saddened today by the death of an "old timer"—Timothy J. Keefe.

Keefe who was star pitcher of the New York Giants in the days before many of today's fans were born, died yesterday at his Cambridge home in his 76th year.

He began his baseball career in Cambridge, then played with teams at Lewiston, Clinton, New Bedford, Utica, Albany and Troy. He and Mickey Welch were the mainstays of the Metropolitan of New York in 1884 and they won the American Association championship.

In 1885 Keefe played with the Giants and shared with other twirlers a record of 19 successive victories on the mound.

After his retirement from big league ball, Keefe coached baseball at Harvard, Princeton and Tufts.

Schools From Every Part Of Country In Wrestling Contest

Chicago, April 24 (AP)—Representatives of southwestern schools, particularly Oklahoma A. & M., and Southwestern State Teachers of Weatherford, Okla., figure to finish high in the National A. A. U. wrestling championships Friday and Saturday.

Ralph Teague of Southwestern Teachers, winner of the national collegiate heavyweight title, will seek another championship and his institution will be represented by capable performers in all classes. His stoutest competition is expected to be provided by Bob Jones, Indiana University fullback, and former national collegiate titleholder.

Every section of the country will be represented in the tournament.

Olympic Runners Starred In Relay

Lawrence, Kas., April 24 (AP)—A trio of performers on the United States Olympic team last summer helped mark up two of the seven new meet records established at the sixteenth annual Kansas Relays here Saturday.

A pair of them, Ivan Fuqua and Charles Hornbostel, were members of the University of Indiana mile relay team which stepped the distance in 3:17.2 to shatter the old mark set up by the University of Iowa.

The other Olympic runner was Glenn Cunningham, one of the country's ace milers from the University of Kansas, who won the 1,500 meter open race in 3:53.3 to lower his own record by 2.8 seconds.

Cuyler To Learn About Ankle Today

Chicago, April 24 (AP)—Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, Chicago Cub center-fielder, will come to Chicago this week for an examination of his ankle fracture, suffered during the spring training season.

The injury has shown improvement and Manager Charlie Grimm is eager to find out how much longer he will have to wait for Cuyler's valuable services.
